

An illustration of two skiers in a dynamic pose, leaning forward as they descend a snowy slope. They are wearing dark ski suits and caps. The skier in the foreground is slightly lower and more angled towards the viewer, while the second skier is behind and to the left. Both are holding ski poles. The background shows a steep, snow-covered mountain with some dark patches of rock or trees. The overall style is that of a vintage travel poster.

SKI-ING IN JASPER NATIONAL PARK

Jasper National Park offers some of the finest ski-ing terrain to be found on the North American Continent. The snow covered mountain slopes lend themselves perfectly to every phase of ski-ing, including long and short cross country trips, jumping, running and slalom. For approximately three months of the year, powdered snow conditions, so desirable for good ski-ing, may be relied upon. Excellent hotel accommodation is available in the town of Jasper at reasonable rates during the winter months.

There are an increasing number of ski-ing enthusiasts who are now planning their annual vacation in the winter, instead of during the summer months, and for their convenience, ski camps have been established in the high alpland country at the following points in Jasper National Park:

TEKARRA BASIN CAMP. Altitude 6,900 ft. Distance 16 miles from Jasper, 9 miles by motor and 7 miles ski trail. Comfortable canvas camp with accommodation for five persons. Good runs.

SHOVEL PASS CAMP. Altitude 6,800 ft. Distance from Tekarra Basin Camp 6 miles. Comfortable cabin accommodation for six persons. Good runs.

MALIGNE LAKE CHALET. Altitude 5,500 ft. Distance from Shovel Pass Camp 15 miles. Chalet accommodation includes dining room, living room with fireplace. Accommodation in main building for eight persons. Numerous ski trips and excellent runs. Overnight trips can be made to upper end of Maligne Lake for glacier runs.

The three camps described above constitute a most interesting ski trip through the high alplands.

For those desiring to go direct to Maligne Lake Chalet, a distance of 34 miles from Jasper, there is an excellent two-day route via Medicine Lake Chalet. 9 miles via Motor, thence 25 miles ski trail, with an overnight stop at Medicine Lake Chalet. The return trip from Maligne Lake Chalet to Jasper is easily made in one day.
